SPOTLIGHT ON SHEILA KILIRU

Prepared by the Publicity and Communications Committee

It's 12,396 kilometers from Thika, Kenya to Chapel Hill, North Carolina. The 10,000-acre DelMonte pineapple plantation in Thika was where Sheila Kiliru grew up. The town was the site of Elspeth Huxley's novel The Flame Trees of Thika. Sheila's father was the plantation's controller, and it was at the plantation where she first went to school. For high school, Sheila was driven the 30 minutes to Nairobi, the capital, where she attended the international school. When she was 18, Sheila came to the United States to go to college. She graduated from SUNY with a BA in international relations, with a minor in health. Feeling drawn to helping people, Sheila got her certification as a CNA which helped pay her college tuition by working summers. In her senior year she became certified as an EMT, and after college while working full time, volunteered for four years with an ambulance corps in New York. It was while riding ambulances she met Jeff, her husband-to-be, a medic also working as a volunteer.

Over the years since, Sheila has worked at a number of different jobs. Five years prior to coming to The Cedars she was Business Development and Marketing Associate with a local clinical research organization, Intake and Marketing Coordinator at a Raleigh company working with people with brain, spinal cord and other medically complex issues, and Marketing Coordinator at a pharmaceutical company.

Sheila came to Durham from New York to be closer to her mother who had by then left Kenya. Jeff had stayed behind in New York for a while to finish his contract as a math teacher and as a paramedic. It was "pure luck" she says that one day, in 2008, she applied for a job she had seen advertised for an office manager at The Cedars. Much has changed at The Cedars in the fourteen years since. Her duties have greatly expanded. She is now in charge of 13 staff that includes the Concierge at The Clubhouse and front staff at the DuBose Health Center. All new Members have undoubtedly met with Sheila as they become new residents. She is literally the go-to staff member able to answer any Cedars' question — or know the staff person who could. Sheila initiates the orientation for new Members and is the de facto staff photographer. She tries, with mixed success, to convince new residents the value of letting her take their photos to attach to their entry on Cedars Connect. Those photos she tells them are the best way for current Members to get to meet newcomers.

Sheila has two sisters, one in the North Carolina mountains and the other in New York. She lives in Alamance County with her retired husband and their 19-year-old daughter who is a student at Alamance Community College. When her work day is over, Sheila admits she loves video games and claims they make her "heart pound." Who would have suspected?

After all of her many jobs, Sheila says she feels this is the place she truly belongs.

A PORCH FOOD DRIVE AT THE CEDARS

Wednesday, May 11-Sunday, May 15

Together we can make a difference!

Do you have an extra can of food in your pantry? What about a box of cereal, oatmeal, pasta, a can of tuna or hearty soup? If so, drop this by the Clubhouse lobby May 11-May 15 and YOU can help a family in need. PORCH is a Chapel Hill-Carrboro all-volunteer, grassroots hunger relief organization with which The Cedars has proudly partnered since 2010.

Come to Members Meeting at 2pm on Thursday, May 26 or tune into Channel 1341 that day to hear how co-founder of PORCH, Debbie Horwitz, has worked to develop a food collection program that by 2021 had raised 4.5 million dollars in hunger relief for families living with food insecurity in the Chapel Hill-Carrboro community.

Any non-perishable food item you can bring to the Clubhouse during our community wide food drive would be greatly appreciated. Racks will be in the Clubhouse lobby for your food donation from Wednesday, May 11-Sunday, May 15.

Lectures on DVD

ART OF THE NORTHERN RENAISSANCE

Taught by Catherine B. Scallen, Ph.D. Professor, Case Western Reserve University
Thursdays through August 25, 11am Ballroom

Using more than 300 images—paintings, woodcuts, engravings, etchings, sculptures, drawings—by well-known artists Jan van Eyck, Rogier van der Weyden, Albrecht Dürer, Hans Holbein, Hieronymus Bosch, and Pieter Bruegel, along with others who may be less familiar but deserve to be better known, Professor Scallen leads an intensely visual exploration of the glorious art that resulted. She explains devotional paintings, brilliantly illuminated copies of the medieval prayer book known as the Book of Hours, and triptychs—massive three-panel works that often served as church altarpieces.

Professor Scallen's lectures will enhance your understanding of art itself—sharpening your ability to notice the significance of content and detail, and showing you how artists drew from and influenced the work of others—making your next trip to the museum or time spent looking at art in other ways more pleasurable and enriching.

DOCUMENTARY FILM CLUB

Julia (2021)

Thursday, May 5, 2pm Ballroom

Friday, May 13, 3pm Discussion via Zoom led by Carol Stamm

Most of us have vivid memories of feasting on dishes from Mastering the Art of French Cooking, published in 1961, or of watching The French Chef featuring Julia Child on PBS a few years after that. Directors Julie Cohen and Betsy West, the team behind the Ruth Bader Ginsburg film RBG, tell the story of the cookbook author and television personality in their new docu-bio, Julia. The documentary shows Julia Child as a cultural trailblazer beyond food and presents to us so many sides of the cookbook author and television personality. Cinematographer Claudia Raschke deployed macro lenses for the most food-porniest of cooking scenes. Steaming on Amazon Prime Video and Apple TV.
